WHAT IS NON-RIVALROUS COORDINATION?

- Non-rivalrous coordination is a profound shift in game dynamics that requires each player to engage in new behaviors that support infinite vs finite games.
- The purpose of an infinite game is to continue playing the game, not to win at the expense of a loser.
- Engaging in the infinite game of non-rivalrous coordination requires players to look for strategies, behaviors, and aligned incentives that help them see the bigger picture and focus on systemic outcomes over individual interests.
- At the core, this looks like staying in a space of openness, 'yes and,' and a willingness to align your work or organization within a broader mission.
